

Hurley Democrats Name Town Ticket

Thursday night the Democrats of Hurley held their caucus in the town hall. Robert F. Browning, presiding, and made nominations for the November election and also passed resolutions on the death of Supervisor Matthew T. E. DeWitt.

The Hurley town ticket was named as follows:

Supervisor—Eugene Ernst, Hurley.
Town clerk—Arthur Wood, Hurley.

Highway Superintendent—Joseph McSpirt, Hurley.

Assessor for four years—Edward Stoutenberg, Glenford.

Assessor for two years—Harry Skeritt, Sr., Hurley.

Collector—Albert Bruckner, West Hurley.

Justice for four years—Michael J. Joyce, West Hurley.

Justice for two years—Anthony Hickey, Hurley.

School director—Mrs. Marie Wilson, West Hurley.

Resolutions on the death of Supervisor DeWitt were adopted as follows:

Whereas, The Almighty God, in the exercise of His all-wise and just Providence has called to his reward our beloved friend and neighbor, Matthew T. E. DeWitt, and

Whereas, Matthew T. E. DeWitt, through the years of his residence in and service to the Town of Hurley, has been upright, conscientious, honest and God-fearing in all his dealings with his fellow townsmen and fellow citizens, and

Whereas, Matthew T. E. DeWitt, by his unostentatious acts of neighborliness, kindness and charity and by his exercise of sympathetic human understanding and genuine bonds of true fellowship with his fellowmen, has endeared him to the people of this town and county with an enduring affection, and

Whereas, Matthew T. E. DeWitt to the full extent of his vast capabilities as an officer of this town and county, gave his loyal and unswerving services to the Democratic party, now, therefore,

Be It Resolved, that we, enrolled members of the Democratic party of the town of Hurley, friends and neighbors of the late Matthew T. E. DeWitt, in this meeting assembled, express our deep sense of loss, our appreciation of those endearing characteristics and our steadfast adherence to those principles he advocated and held dear, and

Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this meeting, that a copy be sent to his bereaved family and that copies be furnished to the press.

Senator McAdoo Hurt In Automobile Crash

Los Angeles, Sept. 27 (AP)—Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo made light today of painful injuries suffered in an automobile accident here, in which his nose was fractured and lacerated so badly six stitches were required.

"The worst of it is that I may not be able to go to Boulder City Sunday, where Mrs. McAdoo and I had planned to meet President Roosevelt," said the 71-year-old senator who last week married 26-year old Doris Cross.

The accident occurred yesterday when McAdoo drove his car against a light pole to prevent striking another machine.

A physician said McAdoo will require several days hospital treatment of the nose, a bruised chest and fractured left wrist.

Teeth Marks Lead To Murder Charge

Hackensack, N. J., Sept. 27 (AP)—Genaro Policastro, 36, of Lyndhurst, and his wife, Carmela, 40, were held on murder charges last night after detectives discovered that Mrs. Policastro's upper teeth matched fresh tooth marks in the shoulder of her dead cousin, Alphonso Paolillo, 60, of Yonkers, N. Y.

Paolillo's body was found yesterday on the concrete driveway of Policastro's home. County detective Chief Henry Lockwood said the couple will be charged with causing Paolillo's death by striking him on the head with a blunt instrument.

Plaster casts of the woman's teeth were made by Dr. Howard Cherry of Teaneck. Dr. Cherry and First Assistant Prosecutor Leland F. Ferry said the cast fitted exactly to the marks in the dead man's shoulder near his neck.

Detectives today were trying to learn a motive for the alleged slaying. Ferry said he believes Paolillo's death resulted from an attempted attack on Mrs. Policastro.

TOWN OF ULSTER CAUCUS SATURDAY, MANY CANDIDATES

The Republicans of the town of Ulster will hold their caucus for nomination of town officers, at the Grange Hall, Lake Katrine, Saturday at 2 p. m. It is understood that there are a number of aspirants for the offices to be filled, especially those of assessor, one for a four year term and one for two. Among those who have announced their candidacy for the latter is Charles E. Saunders of Albany Avenue Extension.

George Jones, Baritone, Tonight.

The Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church tonight presents George Jones, Jr., famous Negro baritone from New York city. The entertainment will begin at 8:15. The Rev. H. H. Kinison, pastor.

Opens His Campaign For the Assembly

ROBERT A. DONNARUMMA.

Declaring that he is seeking election on the record achievement of the past Democratic legislatures, Robert A. Donnarumma, candidate for the Assembly, opened his campaign last evening at a meeting at the club rooms of the Sixth ward. The meeting was arranged by a group of friends and neighbors interested in the election of Mr. Donnarumma. Frank O'Neill presiding, introduced Supervisor Rose Osterhoudt and Mrs. Grace DuBois.

Meeting of the Classis of Ulster

The Classis of Ulster will hold its semi-annual meeting Tuesday, October 1, in the Reformed Church of The Comforter, on Wynkoop Place. The session is to begin at 10 a. m. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, president, will open the session and later will make the address, at the devotional service. The Rev. Eugene C. Duryee, of the Blue Mountain church, is to be the presiding officer of this session. It is expected that there will be representatives from nearly all of the 39 churches making up the classis.

The Classis, at its April session, appointed a committee to make arrangements for the men-of-classis' dinner. This event is to occur on Tuesday evening, November 12, in the Church of The Comforter Hall. The Rev. Dr. M. Stephen James, pastor of the Old First Church of Albany, is to be the speaker on that occasion.

Today's Cable Briefs By Associated Press

(By The Associated Press)

Moscow—The condition of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, seriously ill with pneumonia, took a more encouraging turn today. Dr. A. Rumreich, physician for the United States embassy, said the pneumonia had spread somewhat in the left lung but that the right lung was much improved. The patient's heart action was stronger.

Bruecken, Germany—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Nazi minister of economics, announced today a law would be promulgated soon to concentrate Germany's entire electric power under the supervision of the ministries of interior and economics for "protective" purposes. For "organization of Germany's supply of electricity," he asserted, both privately and municipally owned power plants will be incorporated into a nationwide system.

London—Lord Edward Montagu, second son of the Duke of Manchester, was found guilty in Old Bailey court today on all six counts, charging theft and forgery of a check. He was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment.

Tel Aviv, Palestine—(Palcov)—Palestine's educational crisis, involving 32,000 school children attending Jewish institutions, was deepened last night when the Vaad Leumi, Jewish National Council, unanimously adopted a resolution condemning the Jewish teachers organization for threatening to go out on strike October 1, if demands for higher wages are not met.

Jerusalem—(Palcov)—Jerusalem was in a gala mood today as its Jewish population prepared for the celebration tonight of Rosh Hashanah, the beginning of the Jewish year 5695. Thousands were pouring into the Holy City today, with attendance at the local synagogues expected to be the largest in the country's history. The prayers in the synagogues will be followed by the visit of thousands to the Kotel Maaravi, the Wailing Wall, symbol of the ancient Hebrew empire that was Solomon's.

Tokyo—The government today listed 230 dead, 195 missing and feared dead, and 84 injured as the result of typhoons and torrential rains in Japan. Newspaper compilations, however, indicated the death toll would exceed 500.

Alexandria—A boom defense was swung across the mouth of the harbor here today, similar to those used in the anti-submarine defense at Malta and Gibraltar. There are a number of British naval vessels here. Police arrested, and later released, an Italian, who was said to have been seen checking stores unloaded from British ships for three days. Police said papers in his pocket identified him as a former officer of the air force.

Amsterdam—Premier Colijn today reiterated in Parliament the government's determination to maintain the gold standard in the Netherlands. He declared measures for controlling the exchange market would mean sacrificing the gold standard and said: "The present cabinet will never take this step of its own free will."

Athens—The communist party today announced its intention of soliciting the aid of communists and Greek liberals in the United States to combat the movement for the restoration of the former King George to the throne. The party also expressed a determination to join other democratic forces in the country in the anti-monarchist movement.

Shanghai—Harold L. Farquhar, first secretary of the British embassy to Mexico, and his flying companion, Fritz Bieler, arrived here by airplane today after a flight by stages across the Pacific by way of Alaska and Siberia.

Farquhar said he would continue his flight to Helsinki, Finland, to which he has been transferred by the foreign office. Later, he said, he might complete the flight around the world. He and Bieler left Mexico City August 20.

Athens—Members of the crews on Greek coastal ships today began a hunger strike in protest against an order by S. Dousmanis, minister of marine, confining them to their ships. The order was due to a threat of strike resulting from failure of marine engineers to enforce their demands for better pay and working conditions.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 27, 1935.

DOUBLE PARKING HAZARD

If one drives a car the length of Broadway one is sure to meet a number of cars double parked, whose drivers have left the machines to enter stores or deliver merchandise. This double parking of wide trucks and pleasure cars should be stopped by the police inasmuch as it constitutes a danger to the moving traffic and a problem which even the most careful driver cannot always meet.

Perhaps the most dangerous section where double parking is prevalent is lower Broadway where a narrow street and sharp grade make the problem the more acute. A number of times recently it has been necessary to halt traffic and make a line of several cars back up, holding up city busses and pleasure and business traffic because some truck driver parked his machine double at a narrow section, jumped from the machine and entered a shop.

Several near accidents have been witnessed on lower Broadway within the past week all because of double parking. Other sections of Broadway face the same problem, sometimes double parking being permitted on both sides of the street making it necessary for traffic to converge into a single line each way to pass. Such conditions violate city ordinances and it is up to the police department to enforce them, or be blamed for accidents that transpire, inasmuch as in many cases police officers are within sight when the violations occur but do nothing about it.

It is to be hoped that before any serious accident happens that the police department will about face and enforce the law, and that such enforcement will be a continued event, not merely an intensive drive lasting a week or two. It is also to be hoped that Broadway will not be the only street to receive attention.

SICK POULTRY INDUSTRY

The Supreme Court decision in the Schechter poultry case ended NRA but did not end the problems of the poultry industry. These difficulties have had a recent airing in hearings in Washington on a proposal to make the metropolitan area of New York subject to the licensing provisions of the amended Packers and Stockyards Act of 1935. This act provides for licensing of all persons except packers and railroads concerned in the commercial services connected with the marketing of live poultry in interstate commerce.

The city commissioner of public markets, weights and measures testified that "rackets" operating within the poultry industry locally were costing shippers and producers more than $1,000,000 a year. This official named coop, trucking and feed monopolies as the most active. Under the New York system the chickens in practically every coop shipped to New York are transferred to other coops on arrival at the freight or express terminal, and a fee is exacted for this "service" by the monopoly company. In 1932, the witness testified, a coop company reported in its income tax return that it had made $24,000.

However, when broken down, it was disclosed that the net was really $10,000, one item of $100,000 being for repainting and the purchase of new equipment, which is rather interesting in view of the fact that $100,000 would have paid for a completely new equipment for the company.

Such trade practices are of more than local interest because poultry sold in New York comes from nearly every section of the country. The New York poultry "rackets," according to witnesses, take their toll from the farm wife in Nebraska as well as from the poultry consumer in New York City.

EXPOSING FAULCIACIES

There is something to be said for Father Charles E. Connelley's plan to form a children's anti-Communism club, in which Communism will be taught in order to expose its fallacies. That is more sensible than to ban the teaching of Communism in schools and colleges in order not to contaminate young America's political thinking. The radio priest's pupils, supposedly, will learn what Communism is, what it proposes to do, how it governs and wherein it fails. The weakness of his plan lies in the fact that it will concentrate, apparently, on the one system. Would it not be better to have a course in comparative governmental systems and theories, including constitutional democracy, as well as Communism, Fascism, Socialism, monarchy, etc.?

Such a course, well taught, and with plenty of encouragement of discussion and independent thinking on the part of pupils, could go far toward counteracting false propaganda. It would make pupils more critical, too, of their own government's weaknesses and teach them that the best governmental form ever devised can't work unless it is supported by citizens determined to make it work.

AGE OF ENGINEERS.

It may be all right for undertakers to call themselves morticians and their establishments funeral homes, and for real estate men to be realtors, and for beauty experts to be beauticians, but surely engineering is being overdone in current parlance.

A critic, after considerable research in this field, finds that in addition to locomotive drivers, civil engineers, mechanical engineers and certain other long-recognized engineering groups, there are today window-dressers calling themselves display engineers, house-wreckers who have become demolition engineers, garbage haulers sanitary engineers, tractor operators caterpillar engineers, dancing teachers dancing engineers, and beauticians beauty engineers. Really, isn't there too much engineering?

VARICOSE VEINS

The records show that hundreds of thousands of sufferers from varicose veins have undergone the injection treatment successfully. The question now arises as to whether this simple method of injecting the veins and causing them to dry up can be safely used on patients who have various conditions such as heart disease, kidney disease, high blood pressure or other ailments.

In order to find out just how safe it was for patients with other ailments to undergo the injection treatment of their veins a study was made by Dr. Edward A. Edwards, Brookline, Mass., at the Boston City Hospital and recorded in the Journal of the American Medical Association of 1,000 patients who had undergone the injection treatment.

Of the 1,000 cases, 375, that is more than one-third, might have been rejected for the injection treatment because they were suffering with such ailments as heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, nephritis (inflammation of the kidneys), inflammation of the thyroid gland, ulcer of stomach, anemia (thin blood) and others.

Notwithstanding the fact that they had one or other of these ailments only three cases of the 375 had any reaction and these reactions were not of a serious nature.

From these results it is evident that severe disease of the body should not be allowed to interfere with the removal of the varicose veins by the injection method.

In fact a point in favor of injecting the varicose veins in patients with other ailments was that the general condition of these patients improved after this treatment. This is not hard to understand when we remember that the pain and discomfort from the varicose veins or the ulcers that sometimes accompany them must have been very annoying on the patient aside from any infection that might be caused by the varicose condition.

There were no deaths in this 1,000 cases. Dr. Edwards says, "The results obtained from this series of cases would suggest that the injection treatment of varicose veins may be safely used even in the presence of ailments that were formerly thought would make this treatment dangerous."

However Dr. Edwards agrees with other research workers that no bed patient should be injected for varicose veins.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily Felton has at last taken steps to divorce the terrifyingly upright Edwin Barnes, whose honesty is overshadowed by his mental instability. Emily has won her father and mother to her side and has found herself rather the heroine of her home town for her decision, and has come to visit her school friend, Judith, at St. Paul, where her husband is a plantation, however, because Judith's brilliant brother David is the man Emily first loved.

Chapter "I"

CARROLLTON ONCE MORE

JUDITH glanced adoringly after young David "His mother's sunny disposition," she chuckled. "Come on up and get the Alabama sand out of your ears."

While Emily bathed and changed, Judith lay flat on her back on a chaise longue and chattered incessantly.

She was incredibly unchanged; in appearance she looked the same mature and self-sufficient eighteen that she had been almost eight years ago. Suddenly she raised herself on one arm and looked keenly at Emily.

"Of course it's none of my business and I know I shouldn't ask, but I can't stand the strain any longer. Emily darling, you were so very vague in your letter. Is this break permanent?"

"The sooner I get used to it, the better."

Emily nodded slowly. "Very." Judith collapsed on the couch and blinked at the ceiling. "Thank God! I knew it couldn't work and I'd been horribly afraid you were the kind who would grin and bear it to the bitter end."

"I might have," she confessed. "I hadn't found out accidentally that he was doing the same thing. Not grinning, because he isn't that sort, but bearing it."

"Tell me about it," Judith commanded. Emily told her, taking scrupulous care to recount her own share in the failure. Judith brushed that carelessly aside.

"I know. I know. You were just as much to blame as he was, but I'd have cast you off if you hadn't been." Her eyes sparkled. "This is better than I dared to hope. Now you can stay on indefinitely and we can have a gorgeous time!"

Emily protested laughingly. "We can't do everything your tone implies. I'm in a delicate position, remember."

"Not down here, you aren't. It's a position that this outfit will thoroughly understand and sympathize with."

"But do they have to know anything about it?" she asked in consternation. "I thought we wouldn't even mention it."

Judith scowled at her. "Have you, or have you not, left your husband? And if they know it in Elston it will leak down here sooner or later, so you may as well be braced about it."

SHE sighed. "All right. I suppose the sooner I get used to it the better off I'll be."

Judith rose. "Dorinda will unpack the trunk and the rest of those things. Come on down and let me show you to Aubrey."

Emily had been prepared to like Aubrey Morton for Judith's sake, but she had reckoned without Judith's unerring instinct for people.

Aubrey was fatish, as Judith had said; with glasses and not much hair. He was barely as tall as Judith and was obviously ten or twelve years older, but you knew immediately that he was just the sort of man Judith should have married.

Behind the glasses his eyes were keen and twinkling, and his handshake was warm and firm.

"I'd about decided you were like Santa Claus," he said; "somebody you hear about but never see."

His voice was a musical drawl, more reminiscent of the cotton fields than the Carroll voices, which had been tempered with Virginia mellowness. Emily liked him at once.

"I know it," she apologized. "I don't deserve to be remembered."

He smiled. "If Jude ever gets on your trail you haven't got a chance of being forgotten. Not," he added thoughtfully, "that I blame her."

Judith interrupted gaily. "While we're exchanging bouquets let's have a cocktail."

JUDITH lifted the glass that Aubrey had handed her. "To—the future!"

Aubrey glanced sharply at her, and watching them Emily saw that neither expression had changed, but that Judith had managed with a single slight inflection to convey the entire situation to her husband.

She sensed too that Aubrey had accepted it and, secure in his confidence in Judith's judgment, had approved it. That she realized with a surge of longing, was what marriage should mean; that was what she and Edwin would never have achieved in a lifetime.

PLATTEKILL

Plattekill, Sept. 27.—Members of the Plattekill Grange No. 923 held their annual fair and supper Thursday evening. The regular exhibits of fruit, vegetables and flowers were made, and at the conclusion of the supper dancing of modern and old-fashioned steps were enjoyed. Walden Barnstormers Orchestra furnished music during the evening. Mrs. Wilson Edmunds was general chairman of the affair, assisted by members of the Service and Hospitality committees. Mrs. Charles Everett was supper chairman; William Mack was in charge of the fruit and vegetables; Mrs. Radiker was in charge of the flower exhibit; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Edmunds, dance committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Gerow and daughter, Margery, Mrs. Regina Foster, Misses Elizabeth and Susie Foster, Arthur and Myron Foster attended the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Hurleyville Methodist Church, of which the Rev. Herbert Hahn, former resident of Plattekill, is pastor. Myron Foster was guest soloist during the services.

The Plattekill Fire Department held a benefit dance at the Club El-Ray on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McDonald of East Orange visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Renwick Harris, on Sunday.

Miss Ruth Palmer of Bloomfield, N. J., visited her father, James B. Palmer, last week-end.

Local teachers attended the teachers' conference at New Paltz Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Willet Deyo, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Roe visited the Rev. and Mrs. Hayward Seamon and family of Oak Hill, former residents of Plattekill.

Mrs. Priscilla Baxter, who is a patient at St. Luke's Hospital, receiving treatment for gangrene, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. George Springman of New York were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Nabor.

Vernard B. Wager, collector of taxes in Plattekill school district No. 1, is receiving taxes at the rate of one per cent for 30 days, commencing Saturday, September 21. The Democratic Club will hold a dance Friday evening, September 27, at the Club El-Ray.

The Plattekill Fire Department will hold a dance Monday evening, September 30, at the Club El-Ray.

Keep Vegetables For Winter Use

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 27.—"If you have a home garden, you will want to save everything possible from the garden for winter use. If you do not have a home garden, remember that vegetables and fruits may be bought in bulk in the fall at relatively low prices and kept in the cellar for later use when prices are higher," says A. J. Pratt of the New York State College of Agriculture.

"Such vegetables as snap beans, peas, sweet corn and spinach will not keep well in common storage," he points out. "Others can be kept easier and cheaper in a storage cellar than in cans."

"Good vegetables can be kept in good condition for a long time with the proper temperature and the right degree of humidity or moisture in the air. Vegetables commonly used may be divided into groups, based on their storage requirements."

Cool and Moist.

"In group one are those vegetables that keep best under cool and moist conditions, such as in the cellar without a furnace. In general, vegetables in this group keep best at temperatures that range from 32 to 42 degrees Fahrenheit, and with a relative humidity of 90 per cent or more. This group includes nearly all such root crops as beets, carrots, parsnips, salsify, turnips and winter radishes; also the potato, a tuber, and the leaf crops represented mainly by cabbage, Brussels sprouts, and celery."

ST. REMY

St. Remy, Sept. 27.—Sunday services September 29: Sunday school 1:30 p. m. Preaching by the pastor, the Rev. Philip Goertz, at 2:30 p. m. All are welcome to these services.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Terpening and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ellsworth motored to Ellenville and return on Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Pruden of Slighsburg called on Mrs. Kathryn Sutton on Saturday.

There was no school on Friday as the teachers' conference was held at New Paltz.

The annual fall and chicken supper of the St. Remy Church will be held October 30.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet in the Sunday school room of the church on Thursday, October 3, at 4:30 p. m. The hostesses will be Mrs. Tracy Van Vleet, Mrs. Lewis Van Vleet and Mrs. K. Sutton. New members and visitors always are welcome.

Kenneth Kren and family were at West Camp on Sunday.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Although the nominating conventions of the two major political parties still are more than nine months away, speculation as to their location is receiving serious consideration among politicians.

Republicans generally are agreed that their convention city will be in the west. With the west regarded as the real battleground for the '36 campaign, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland, Minneapolis and Kansas City will be among the cities bidding for the G. O. P. convention. At present Kansas City appears to have the inside track. A new air-conditioned auditorium with a seating capacity of 20,000 plus a strategic location is responsible.

The best guess now is that the Democratic convention will be held in the east. Certain signs that the "new deal" is slipping in the east have made the Democrats dubious about going west again for their big show.

Either Atlantic City or Philadelphia may get the call.

G. O. P. Hopes

REPUBLICAN leaders are making no extravagant claims, but privately they have high hopes of making deep inroads into the preponderant Democratic majority in congress in the elections of 1936.

Party strategists have looked over the records for 1934 and noted that in a score or more districts Democratic candidates were successful by a margin of 3,000 votes or less. In one district a Democrat squeaked through with only 233 votes to spare.

They are keeping in mind that in the recent congressional election in Rhode Island, the Republican candidate reversed a majority of more than 10,000 votes for the Democrat in 1934.

The G. O. P. high command hopes to accomplish the same thing in many districts that went Democratic by scant majorities last year.

'End Of Liberalism'

THE more astute politicians gave more than passing notice to the observation made by spokesmen for the third party movement to President Roosevelt's "breathing spell" letter.

An organization is in the field for the purpose of creating sentiment for a third party and is making itself felt. It is called the American Commonwealth Political Federation. The youthful Representative T. R. Amle, member of the Wisconsin progressive party in congress, is its chairman.

Amle declares the President's letter marks "the end of new deal liberalism."

Soaking Wet

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
 WHEN the ducks started to show the audience how they used the hose, suddenly the people screamed in surprise for they had been showered with water.

"What has happened? What has happened?" cried the owner of the show, and the giant as they came rushing inside.

"We're soaked," said some.

"Our clothes are ruined," said others.

"We want our money back," said a few of the people.

"There was no water in that hose. It was not attached to anything," said Willy Nilly.

"Quiet! Quiet!" he urged, and the owner of the side-show and the giant cried:

"Order, quiet! Don't leave your benches, people! Some one might get hurt. Order! We'll see what happened. It was an accident."

"Accident and I've ruined my best dress," said one woman.

"Accident, and my hat will lose its pretty color," said another.

"Let us wait for a moment until everything quiets down and then those who want their money back will be given it," said the owner of the show.

"Money back!" shouted several.

"Our money-back won't pay for the soaking our clothes have been given."

"Indeed it won't," agreed others.

The crowd was not a happy one.

Suddenly Willy Nilly noticed something.

"It's all my fault," he cried.

"No, no, no," quipped the ducks.

"We should have noticed that the end of the hose was in water when we turned the nozzle."

Talks to parents

Butterfly On A Pin

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

"Where are you going, dear? Where have you been, Mary? Why are you so depressed? Aren't you seeing anything of Susan these days? Why not? Did Sam call you up? With whom were you talking just now?"

In the face of Mrs. Y's persistent questioning, Mary had no defense. She could not help blurring out her distress: "Susan and I were always so close, and then she was always so busy, and I don't know where she is now. What she told me, she said, wherever she was, she felt her mother's eyes following her, and if not her eyes, her crying thought."

It was all an expression of Mrs. Y's affection and Mary knew it, but it was trying none the less, and the child longed for privacy and a chance for independence. Nowhere could she be safe. Her mother popped into her room whenever she liked, often without knocking, and more than once Mary knew that her letters and diary had been read.

Many mothers call this kind of behavior "keeping in touch with their children." It is really nothing but senseless chattering. They cannot bear to have their children grow up and form ideas and opinions of their own, or to have independent lives. They cannot believe that their children are able to think and act for themselves.

In point of fact they are kept touch with their children, driving them to lying and evasion, and by this means exposing them to danger. Involuntary confidences are worse than secrets, for they reveal resentment. No one wants secrets piled out of him.

As to reading a child's letters and diaries—surely one can accord a child the same respect which one gives one's contemporaries. The life of a butterfly under a microscope must be delightful in comparison with that of a child with an inquisitive mother, for the butterfly's thoughts at least are safe.

Fashionable grows this fall will have only one sleeve. And that wearers will probably keep right on regarding sleeves as fussy.

Young Republicans of County Attend Session

He affairs and said that for himself he would be glad to meet once a month during the year, either with those present, or with any group, to discuss proper methods of procedure. "Too few people," said the mayor, "know what it is all about. There is too much indifference to public affairs on the part of the great mass of people. They do not seem to realize that the acts of the Board of Supervisors, the State and National Legislatures, have a vital effect upon the industrial and social life of the country and the communities of the country. Government is never a true democracy unless the people vote intelligently."

City Service Kept Up

Mayor Heselman briefly reviewed his administration and said that while many cities during the depression had been obliged to curtail public services, Kingston had not done so, had not reduced wages of workmen—in fact municipal services had been improved. He said they had met a condition in which 53 per cent of the funded debt would fall upon the shoulders of the taxpayers during the next three years by taking advantage of the new debt equalization plan—the first city in the state to do so. The tax rate, he said, had been reduced $4 during the past two years and he "would not be surprised to see a rate below $30 within the next three years." They had adopted the "good old 'pay as you go' policy that had worked so effectively in the county, up to two years ago."

Andrew Ferguson, who spoke as assistant vice-president of the Young Republican Clubs of the Third Judicial District and president of the clubs in the city, gave a prepared address in which he reviewed at some length the issues of the coming campaign and the record of the Republican candidates. He said, among other things:

New Deal Definition

"Republican State Chairman, Melvin C. Eaton challenged the Democratic party of this state to carry on the fall campaign on state and national issues. The Democratic party in conference decided not to accept the challenge because even they realize that the definition of the New Deal is D. E. U. N. C. T., meaning 'Democratic Experimental Failures Under Nutty College Tutors.' The same conference stated that the Democratic party would fight the fall campaign on state issues and the record made by them during the past session of the legislature, then proceeded to beg the question by generalizations and half truths."

"The Democratic party and its standard bearers have been consistent only in their broken campaign promises. In this state the Democrats promised a balanced budget and gave the people a budget which is off balance by almost $100,000,000. They have been extravagant and have shown themselves incapable of meeting emergencies. The governor pledged that he would uphold civil service yet allowed the passage of ripper legislation which abolished such positions, particularly in Nassau county. He increased gas taxes, taxed unincorporated business for the privilege of carrying on business in this state, raised income taxes, and increased the taxes on insurance companies and yet with all the added revenue, he failed to even come close to a balanced budget."

Democratic Failure in Ulster.
"The Republican party in Ulster county gave to the people a county free from bonded indebtedness—a county which was free to reduce taxes by economy in government. The Democratic party came into control and now, instead of a debt free county, Ulster has short term indebtedness notes to the amount of $100,000. They tried to remove James F. Loughran from the office of county superintendent of highways because he could not be made to disperse patronage for them. While the case was pending they employed a Democrat to take Mr. Loughran's place. The courts ruled that Mr. Loughran should be reinstated with back pay, hence two salaries were assessed against the people of this county. During the incumbency of the Democratic superintendent we had some snow storms with the result that sanding roads and removing snow cost $64,875.45 as against $36,124.47 under Republican administration. Pretty expensive, in view of the fact that the past winter was much milder than the previous year."

Lack of Candidates.
"The Republican minority leader of the board of supervisors introduced a resolution at a recent meeting, calling for a report on what bills were outstanding against the county, despite the large expenditures made and why bills have been left unpaid for months, as had been alleged. The Democrats rejected the resolution by a strict party vote. The Republican party intends to bring these facts before the public, however."

The county Democratic party is a very versatile organization, exceeded only by their national counterpart, the New Dealers. This fall when it came time to name their tickets they found themselves lacking in material, but that didn't worry them. For commissioner of public welfare for the county they chose the defeated Republican convention candidate to run under their banner. Lacking material they named as candidate for sheriff the president of the Sangerites Taxpayers' Association. As a candidate for alderman of the Fourth ward in Kingston they named a young Republican.

The Democratic candidate for sheriff is running on a taxpayers platform that calls for lower taxes. Now the Republican party has in the city of Kingston reduced taxes under the leadership of Mayor Heselman, and by the application of sound business principles Mr. Heselman has guaranteed a reduction in taxes for 1936, 1937, and 1938. The Democratic party is faced with the dilemma of either repudiating the platform put forth by their candidate for sheriff or say that they have two methods of government to offer the people—one for the county, the other for the city. In any event their candidate for the office of sheriff is bound to either endorse Mayor Heselman's campaign or else be held up as making campaign promises in which he has no belief.

What Republicans Offer.

"What has the Republican Party to offer the people?"
In a Republican controlled assembly our party offers a check on the wild spending orgy that has been indulged in by the Democratic party in the state. We offer the only chance that the motorist has to prevent the passage of an additional two cents a gallon gas tax.

"In the county we can give the people of this county sound economy based upon 28 years of experience in handling county business. We will again undertake to wipe out indebtedness. We pledge ourselves to show the people of this county how and where their money has been spent. We will put forth every effort to reduce the real tax burden."

The Record in Kingston.

"As for the City of Kingston and the candidates who are on our ticket, their record speaks for itself. Taxes have been reduced. They will be still further reduced, not by infringement upon the working man, but by sound financing and economy in government. The present city administration has increased the efficiency of the police department by the adoption of radio cars. It has improved the sanitary conditions of our city by the construction of the incinerator and has improved the efficiency of the department by the employment of a modern method of ash collection. In the field of relief, this city instituted a social service exchange which has been of incalculable value in preventing overlapping of relief aid. The City of Kingston has carried on its full share of relief work without increasing the bonded indebtedness of the people and at the same time has been able to reduce taxes for the year 1935 by $4 a thousand."

"Mayor Heselman has given the people of this city a sound business administration with the very minimum of politics. He pledges himself to continue reducing taxes, to carry on his fight to help the laboring man by bringing new industry to Kingston; to offer a more equitable method of assessment, to continue to make Kingston a Convention City."

"The issue which is before the people of this city is not do we want Heselman or Martin, but do we want a lower tax rate based on sound government economy or do we want a politician who makes promises of all kinds and who can carry out few or none of them."

"I say to you that it is your duty to the people of this county and city to refute all false promises, half truths and appeals to prejudice which may be injected into the campaign this fall."

Address by Philip Elting.

In introducing Chairman Philip Elting, Mr. Stang said, "You all know him and to know him is to love him. I am calling upon him, not as a politician, but as a friend, adviser and trusted guide of the Republicans in this county for over 30 years."

Mr. Elting said that he had been pleased to sit and listen to the talks of the evening and to realize that there was in the county such a group of young men interested in questions of citizenship—the foundation of our American government, adding, "our system of government will fail and fall if the rights and privileges of citizenship are not understood. Every citizen should have a full understanding of his government—in county, state and nation. That citizenship is unworthy which does not exercise its rights and privileges. If government fails in this community, the blame must rest upon the best citizenship in the community."

Parties Necessary.

The speaker dwelt upon the necessity for uniting for action and said that citizens could best perform the functions of citizenship by working in some political party. He advised all young men and young women to study the history of their country, the history of its political parties, and then make a choice. "I believe in political parties most firmly," said Mr. Elting. "Credit should be given to public officials who do good work, but back of them is the political party which nominated them and supported them in their campaign for election."

It is the duty of the citizen to study the issues of the day, said the speaker. "If he is satisfied that his party has not given good government, he should abandon it and join one that will give the people good service."

Orgy of Spending.

Mr. Elting referred to the "wild orgy of spending" in Washington during the past three years, saying that more money had been spent in three years of extravagance than during the first 125 years of the country's history—more than this country spent in the World War. The debt, he said, would hang over the country for generations to come and he added, "The history of the country shows that that has always been the policy of the Democrats. It is true today in Albany, where they have spent $100,000,000 more than they took in. It is true in the Ulster county board of supervisors, in which a Democratic majority took over a balance of $88,000 two years ago and spent it; borrowed $100,000 and spent it and have had bills accumulating for some months now—the amount of which is unknown—and which at the last meeting of the board they refused to divulge. Add all this together and you will have an idea of what 17 Democrats to 16 Republican means to Ulster county."

Mr. Elting spoke interestingly of his first introduction to the field of politics as a boy and his taking over the chairmanship of the Ulster county Republican organization, a post he has filled since April, 1904. He concluded with words of advice to the Young Republicans as to the course they should follow in carrying out their work for the party.

The tang of fall is in the air. Poets are beginning to write verses again about the smell of brushwood and the brilliant colors of autumn leaves. The last of the season's fresh fruit, the luscious Concord grape and the purple plum are offering their wares before fresh fruit season is over for another year.

Strasbourg Killer Attends Funerals But Eludes Police

Strasbourg, France (AP)—The police net around "the Strasbourg strangler," France's most dreaded criminal, is slowly tightening.

Authorities, pushed by a frightened public, have worked for three years to catch the daring murderer who signed his crimes and even attended the funerals of his victims.

Slayer Taunts Police.

The shadow of the unknown hand first fell on the old Alsatian city in February, 1932. A ragpicker, trudging along the old Schiltigheim fortifications, cast the flickering light of his lantern on the nude body of a young girl. She had been strangled.

The day after her funeral, police received a letter boasting that the writer had committed the crime and had attended the burial service. Details that he gave left no doubt in the minds of the police he had been there.

A month later, before the city had recovered from its fright at the first crime, another girl was found murdered in similar circumstances. Although police, this time, watched the funeral and questioned several strangers, the strangler wrote his letter to the police the next day proving he had been at the cemetery.

Terror Grips Citizens.

With his third crime, the "Strasbourg strangler" became more daring. He called police to tell them where they might find the body of his victim. This time it was an 11-year-old boy who sold chestnuts on the street and was known to nearly everyone in the city. Again, despite precautions, the murderer attended the funeral.

After that streets in outlying districts became deserted at night. Mothers still keep their children indoors after dusk and women are afraid to venture out.

With the third crime, the murders ceased but the criminal continues to write his letters to the police, a practice which he has carried on into this year. Police fear he may strike again before they can bring him to justice.

HUNGARY'S HOT PLAINS FURNISH ITALIAN MOUNTS.

Budapest (AP)—The prospect of war in Ethiopia has brought prosperity to certain industries and regions in Hungary.

Italian scouts ascertained that Hungarian horses bred on the hot southeastern plains were able to withstand the African climate and fought large numbers of them.

Italy also purchased virtually the entire output of the Pecs coal mines and coke works. These mines attracted wide attention last year when workers, by a spectacular hunger strike underground, obtained pay increases.

Hungary also is supplying leather and tobacco for the Italian forces in Ethiopia.

Jewelry, the fashion says, is in vogue again this fall. And fortunately almost any piece of wearable hardware rates as jewelry.

A nonchalant traveler in comfortable shorts, the Prince of Wales is shown as he leaned on a hiking stick while chatting with friends on his jaunt through Corsica. The heir to the British throne, style setter for men throughout the world, made comfort his first consideration on his trip. (Associated Press Photo)

Schirick Fixes No Date For Volckmann Trial

Catkill, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—After E. Volckmann, 29-year-old butcher-boy, was back in his cell at the Greene county jail today awaiting trial, probably next February, on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of Helen Glenn, nine-year-old daughter of a Methodist minister.

Volckmann was arraigned yesterday and pleaded not guilty shortly after the murder indictment was handed down by the grand jury. His attorney, Claremont G. Tennant of Cooperstown, reserved the right to change the plea and included a "specification of insanity at the time of the crime."

Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick of Kingston did not fix the trial date.

After Volckmann's arrest three months ago, state police and District Attorney John C. Welsh said he confessed that he attacked the little girl and then killed her with a butcher knife.

In the eighteen months that ended June 30, 1935, 51,200 persons met death in motor crashes in this country. More than 1,200,000 were injured. The late statistics, thought provoking as they are, cannot give an adequate picture of the horror of major automobile accidents. Figures cannot express broken bones—mangled bodies—crushed skulls—obliterated features—decapitated bodies—and all the rest of the results of fatal motor crashes. Nor can figures picture the tragedy of parentless children and broken-hearted dependents of the victims of recklessly driven cars.

Appellate Division Gets Movie Problem

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—The appellate division of the supreme court was called on today to decide whether a banned motion picture is "immoral" as claimed by the New York state censor or "conveys a high Sunday school lesson."

The problem was presented to the court by the owners of the Hungarian film "Spring Shower," described by state censor Irwin Esmond as "the story of the seduction of a young servant girl."

Esmond branded the picture "immoral, inhuman, sacrilegious, and would tend to corrupt morals," and the State Education Department banned it in New York state.

The owners, in appealing to the appellate division yesterday to review the action of the department, maintained that "certainly the sufferings of this girl convey a high Sunday school lesson."

HIS EXCELLENCY--

The Governor of North Dakota.

For Acting Governor Walter Welford, agricultural problems are an old story—he has been on both the receiving and giving end. . . . The stocky, smiling Nonpartisan League Republican, now 66 years old, is a dirt farmer and stock breeder of repute. He operates a 1,500-acre farm in Pembina county where he specializes in grain growing and breeding of Hereford cattle. . . . He came to North Dakota with his parents in 1879. . . . In addition to farming operations he is president of the Cavalier Chronicle Publishing Company which operates a farmer-owned paper. . . . Elected state representative in 1906, polling every vote but one in his home precinct, he served in that capacity until 1916 when he went to the senate. . . . Elected lieutenant governor in November, 1934, and when the Democratic governor, Thomas H. Moodie, was disqualified, took over the office. . . . Although no expert public speaker, Welford launched a program of speaking engagements recently in opposition to proposed referendum of the 2 percent state retail sales tax. . . . In special election the voters proved they listened. Mrs. Welford is an invalid.

Youngest Co-ed

This girl, 15, is the youngest co-ed at the University of Wisconsin. She is Edna Baumann, a freshman. She expects to specialize in home economics. (Associated Press Photo)

Bey Awaits Trial

Tolland, Conn., Sept. 27 (AP)—John Bey, sat in one of the few steel cells of Tolland county's small jailhouse here today awaiting the state's next move in the crime to which he allegedly has confessed, the fatal shooting of an Ellington constable. It is expected Bey will remain here until after the first of the year and then be arraigned at the January term of the superior court, although there is a possibility State Attorney M. D. O'Connell may bring him before the September term, now in recess, on a bench warrant. In the Ellington town court yesterday afternoon Bey pleaded innocent to a charge of murder. He was bound over to the superior court by Justice of the Peace Theodore A. Palmer, whose gasoline station Bey had admitted robbing during his mad flight from scores of police which finally ended Wednesday night with his capture near Northampton, Mass.

Valuable Painting Sought

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 27 (AP)—Police searched antique shops and pawn shops in greater Boston today for a picture of the Madonna and Child, reputedly painted by Gentile Bellini in the 15th century. Theft of the picture from her Cambridge home was reported yesterday to police by Mrs. Alma Brown, who said she valued it at $5,000.

Broadway: "She." For something different in talkie entertainment, this mystical drama takes the blue ribbon with plenty to spare. Way up beyond the Arctic is the strange kingdom of Kor, ruled over by a beautiful and dangerous woman who has stayed young for 500 years because the "Name of Life" is known to her and she guards it with an awful jealousy. To this strange land go explorers tracing down the rumors that such a land exists. They discover this eerie kingdom and the queen falls in love with one of the men. With a cast of thousands, magnificent settings and an ever present air of mystery, "She" becomes distinctive screen fare, well worth seeing. Helen Gahagan, Nigel Bruce, Helen Mack and Randolph Scott head the group of featured players. The story was adapted from the Rider Haggard novel and was under the supervision of Merriam Cooper. An added attraction is the Baer-Louis fight pictures.

Orpheum: "The Glass Key" and

"Code of the Mounted". Dashiell Hammett's savage murder story he does grim entertainment on the Orpheum screen in the first feature, but those who seek realism will thrill to the picture for it is both brutal and amazing drama. The plot centers around a political row between two big wigs and tells how Beaumont, played by George Raft, does his boss a good turn by getting into the camp of the enemy. Mr. Raft takes one of the worst physical beatings ever recorded before a camera during the course of events and he also gives his finest screen performance. Edward Arnold is also in the cast. "Code of the Mounted" is wildfire melodrama with Kermit Maynard doing the hero work in the grand manner.

Kingston: "Going Highbrow" and "Werewolf of London." Zazu Pitts, Guy Kibbee and Edward Everett Horton prove a hard working and laugh getting comedy trio in a story that tells how to crash the social order in a big way. The second feature, a direct opposite, is one of the biggest horror dramas of the year for it tells of a werewolf, half man half beast, who roams about doing damage when the moon is full. Henry Hull is perfect in the title role and the excellent photography and settings are a big help in making the picture a real shocker. For nerve racking excitement, this talkie is sure to strike home. Warner Oland, Spring Byington and Valerie Hobson are featured. The Baer-Louis blow by blow fight pictures are also an added feature of the program.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Top Hat". With music by Irving Berlin, a treat in itself, plus the graceful capering of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, this musical treat is a parade of songs, clever dances, gaiety, laughter and brilliance. Never was the humble Astaire seen to more perfect advantage and Miss Rogers' long association with the dancing star has made her a capable and sure partner in their difficult dance routines. There are chorus numbers too, with a bevy of beautiful damsels all dressed up to please, but the entire production is constructed and made for the express purpose of showing Astaire and Rogers to best advantage. The entire play has been handled perfectly and it becomes a high entertainment, one of the bright pictures of the year. A cast of hundreds is headed by such prominent players as Edward Everett Horton, Eric Blore, Helen Broderick and Erik Rhodes. Here's an earful and eye-ful of rare enjoyment.

Orpheum: Same. Kingston: "The Farmer Takes a Wife". A smash hit on the legitimate stage, the talkie version also proves a sensation due in no small measure to Janet Gaynor and the handsome Henry Fonda. It's a tale of the days when the Erie canal was new and the love story centers around the efforts of a young man to bring the girl he loves into the bliss of farm life, but this isn't easy as the girl has been brought up on a boat and likes the idea of staying on one. There are fights galore and the atmosphere of that busy day and age is faithfully produced. Slim Summerville adds some grand comedy moments, Janet Gaynor gives a convincing performance and Henry Fonda, borrowed from the Broadway stage, does so well in his first motion picture assignment that he is unquestionably on the way to stardom.

Glove Once Given at Funerals. In early days it was the custom to give out gloves at funerals, and the minister always received a pair. One Boston minister had 2,940 pairs.

BACK HOME AND READY TO WORK

Perched on the steps of the home of his brother, Lionel, in Beverly Hills, Calif., John Barrymore, who "eluded" his protegee, Elaine Barrie, in a serio-comic race across the continent, is shown as he assured reporters that talk about his avoiding Miss Barrie is inaccurate, adding that she is "much too charming to avoid." He'll make a new film. (Associated Press Photo)

A full grown hen will eat about one and one half pounds of mash in a week. An adult rat will eat about a pound in the same period. If the farm supports about fifty rats and one-half of the food is taken from the feed hoppers in the poultry houses, then rats are eating 1,300 pounds of mash in a year. This is enough food to support sixteen hens for an entire year.

Danes Irked By Babs And Husband

Brief Stay In Count's Native Country Makes Press Talk

Copenhagen (P)—Denmark, having acquired a definite interest in the former Barbara Hutton, heiress to Woolworth "five and dime" millions, has abandoned whatever hopes might have been entertained that the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow would live in the kingdom.

The brief stay of the new countess in her new husband's native land has convinced the Danes, the press indicates, that Denmark will be merely a stopping-off place for her.

"Live Here? Oh No!"

And there is the negative answer which the magazine "København" reports having received in an interview with the "dollar princess", as the Danes have dubbed the new countess.

"Would you think of living in Denmark?" she was asked. And the former Princess Mdjani, so the story goes, looked out the window of the ferryboat on which she was being interviewed, and breathed a very definite "No."

The Danish public was fully aware, on the other hand, of the preparations which were made to receive the Woolworth heiress, not at Rosenlund, the small estate of her new husband but at Hardenberg, the large family estate.

Count Also Flamed

There were stories of interior decorators being called to Hardenberg, of servants being drilled, of flag-lined roadways to the castle.

And the Danish press, having anticipated from such preparations that a lengthy stay was contemplated, evidenced a touch of chagrin that the countess should so quickly forsake Denmark.

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow is himself accustomed to jaunting about Europe, it is pointed out, so the quick departure is not debited entirely to the wishes of his bride.

In fact the count has taken most of the journalistic brickbats as a result of difficulties encountered in getting interviews and photographs of the couple.

One writer, in the magazine "Vore"

Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow (she was Barbara Hutton—remember?) were photographed in each other at the Lido, swanky Italian shore resort near Venice, where they hurried after a short visit to the count's family in Denmark.

Damer," speaks of the "sneaky" and other royal persons quite privation of the press by the count, "vately can easily be done, but in and adds that "to photograph kings [this instance, No!"

PARIS MEMORIAL BUILDING TO HONOR U. S. SOLDIERS

Paris (P)—A memorial building dedicated to American soldiers fallen in foreign campaigns is to be constructed here by the Benjamin Franklin Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The memorial will rise on the Place de L'Etoile, facing the Arc de Triomphe, under which France's unknown Soldier rests. It will be formed by remodeling one of the imposing residences of uniform facades encircling the arch.

Dr. James Sparks of the post said the memorial was being financed privately and that the name of the donor of the funds would not be made known.

The structure will contain a chapel dedicated to soldiers killed in each of America's foreign campaigns.

PEIPING'S MAYOR WINS FIGHT ON CO-EDUCATION

Peiping (P)—Co-education in local high schools is to become a thing of the past in this city, but by a narrow margin.

And only after a bitter dispute between Peiping's moralistic mayor

Yuan Liang and a union of private middle schools who opposed the efforts to deprive them of their girls students.

A compromise provides the schools will accept no new girls students, but allows those they now have to graduate.

Mayor Yuan has no objection to co-education in primary schools or in universities but believes that girls and boys should not study and play together during adolescence. He has established special schools for the girls.

HARD HEARTED BRITISHERS MEET.

London (P)—Lock the door and keep those women out. "The Black Hearts of India" are in London.

Born amidst the hills of the summer headquarters of the Indian empire, the "Most Hospitable Order of the Knights of the Black Heart" is probably the most exclusive society of women bachelors in the world. After 45 years' existence, there still are only a few score members, mostly government officials.

When the members meet they wear evening dress with black silk brooches, a red silk cape with pearl velvet collar, and a large black bow suspended by a scarlet ribbon around the neck.

When they dine the doors of the banquet hall are locked and bolted—for it would never do if a woman should stray into the room.

Originally bachelorhood was essential for membership. Now "widowers" also may join.

BOONDOONIAL WEDDINGS CELEBRATED IN TURKEY

State Rests Case Today In Sherman Trial After Miss Magill's Testimony

"Unwitting Motive" in Worcester
"American Tragedy" Drowning
Tells of Events Prior to Her
Breaking Off Relations.

SHERMAN GAVE $10

Miss Magill Tells That She Returned Money Defendant Gave Her for Christmas.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 27 (AP).—The state rested its case against Newell P. Sherman, choir-singing accountant accused of drowning his wife, as Esther Magill, 18-year-old other woman in the case, concluded two and a half hours on the witness stand at 12:30 p. m. today after admitting she kept clandestine company with the defendant.

Serious of face, the stocky Whiteville girl, who, the government charges, was the unwitting motive in the drowning of 22-year old Alice Sherman at Lake Singletary July 20, testified she worked in a Whiteville machine shop with Sherman.

She identified photographs of a workroom at the plant in which she said she and the defendant were employed.

She was 17, she said, when she went to work there. At first she went to work by trolley and walked home.

In December 1934, she said, she began riding back and forth with Sherman in his automobile.

Sherman, she related, drove through a section known as "purgatory" en route to work each day. There were other passengers in the car, she said.

Trooper's Testimony.

Miss Magill took the stand after Corporal Robert Thompson of the state police had testified Mrs. Sherman's body was found 200 feet from shore, while Sherman's size 14 shoe was recovered 150 feet from shore.

Sherman had said his wife lost her grip on his arm and sank while he was removing the shoe after their canoe tipped. The state charges he deliberately upset the craft and let his wife drown.

The witness said Sherman gave her $10 in December 1934 as a "Christmas present to buy a dress" but that she returned it to him.

A few weeks later, she said, Sherman asked her to go out with him and that she refused. She testified she thought he was married and had one child.

"Two weeks later he asked me to go out again," she continued and she again refused. Finally, however, she went out with him to a place in Worcester, on the understanding it was a "friendly party."

She said the occasion was on a Monday because Monday "was the only night he could get out."

Had Drinks Together.

Miss Magill said she and Sherman ate and each had two drinks, highballs, at an inn and left at 10:30, getting home about 12. On the way home, she testified, they had parked on a side road and got into the back seat.

They were parked about three quarters of an hour, the witness continued. "He tried to make love to me, tried to kiss me," she related.

"I told him he hadn't ought to," the witness said she told Sherman. About two weeks later, she said, Sherman asked her to go out again. She accepted, she said. They left home at 7:30 p. m., she continued, and drove to Mt. Auburn, a roadside establishment where they each had two highballs.

On her second trip with Sherman, she said they again parked, got into the rear seat and "hugged and kissed."

She said Sherman told her "he loved me."

Miss Magill testified that in about two more weeks she went out again with Sherman. The third "date" also was on Monday and they drove to Woonsocket, R. I.

They went to a "small place on a side street" and they had drinks and nothing to eat, she said; she said she didn't know how many drinks.

Miss Magill testified en route home they again parked "off the road," got into the rear seat and "hugged and kissed." She appeared on the verge of tears at this point.

The defense objected to a direct question as to whether the relations were more intimate.

She replied: "I refuse to answer on advice of counsel because it might tend to incriminate me."

She told of attending a supper given by the Sutton Grange at Sutton town hall with Sherman. After the supper they drove to a "side road," she said, and both got into the rear seat.

"She didn't remember what occurred there," she testified.

Served Notice on Sherman.

During a lengthy talk at the shop she said she told Sherman "I think it is about time I stopped going with you" mentioning his wife and two children.

She said Sherman told her she had been going with him so long she "might as well keep it up."

She never went out alone with him after April 26, she testified, although several times he asked her when she was going out with him. She said she told him "never."

To Erect Modern Home in Hurley

Transactions are under way for Ulster county to have at least one of the model homes being constructed along the lines of specifications supplied by the General Electric Company in its intensive campaign to promote building of electrified homes.

Through Arthur J. Harder, electrical appliance dealer of 51 North Front street, it was learned today that a tract of land has been purchased in Hurley for the erection of one of the modern homes, and that the property is large enough for six other G-E houses provided the concern sees fit to erect them.

Mr. Harder said that the land was purchased by James Sneed, Kingston realtor, from John A. and Ralph Hiller. The site is situated on Fortenier street and the Greenhill road. Title to the property will have been transferred to Mr. Harder and the General Electric before building starts.

Several other Kingston firms, including building contractors, and home furnishing will be interested in the project, Mr. Harder said. They will construct the home and have a part in equipping it according to the modern specifications of the G-E.

Further details concerning the new home at Hurley will be released by Mr. Harder as soon as negotiations have been completed.

The edition of Business Week published on August 3, says of the model home plan as follows:

"General Electric Co.'s intensive campaign to promote building of electrified homes (and sell household equipment) gathers momentum. Already 200 demonstration houses, following winning designs in G-E's architectural competition have been erected by builders or are under construction. Some 300 more are in immediate prospect."

"The goal is 1,200 of these scientifically engineered 'New American' homes, or one for each 100,000 of population. Total expenditures will be about $10 millions. Last Sunday a flying squadron of 15 men left New York to speed action in centers that have been lagging."

"To consolidate its drive, G-E has taken over Houses, Inc. While the ingenious Foster Gunnison, president of Houses, Inc., was working out the prefabricated completely electrified house which fascinated selected beholders, Owen D. Young lent support but for policy reasons remained in the background. Now Houses, Inc., comes frankly into the picture and takes the family name."

"Houses, Inc. is not going into the construction business and neither is G-E. In the new setup Houses, Inc., will conduct fundamental research in perfecting modern housing. But an affiliate of Houses, Inc., is American Houses, builder of the Motoshomo, a completely prefabricated electrified house. It offers 10 designs ranging in price from $4,400 to $15,000. To tap the low-price market a party-prefabricated house to sell around $3,000 is planned."

"The 1,200 demonstration 'New American' houses will be built by orthodox methods under the supervision of architects. Here G-E is furnishing the original impetus for local committees which enlist the cooperation of builders, utility companies, banks, the Federal Housing Administration, equipment dealers, newspapers, etc. G-E equipment must be used in the demonstrations but substantial discounts and credit terms are allowed."

"The houses are to be built in residential sections where they can be sold and lived in. Prices complete with electric installations run up to about $15,000. But preference to realties of income has led to emphasis on a $5,500 model. Basic electric equipment (heating plant, air conditioning, laundry, electric kitchen, radio, etc.) is required but complete furnishings may be added."

"The exhibition houses are expected to stimulate other construction. Washington, D. C., furnishes an example. Here Waverly Taylor, Inc., is starting 75 homes of which five will use the G-E 'New American' designs. Air conditioning is planned for all. Demonstration houses in all population centers are to be completed early in the fall to synchronize with G-E's national advertising campaign for the 'New American' home."

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, Sept. 26, 1935.—Stanley Keator, Samantha Barringer, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Keator took a trip to Roxbury and other points of interest on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Barringer spent the week-end with Merritt Davis and family in Burnside.

League May Send Air Patrol To Border

League of Nations failed to preserve peace.

Knowing that the Ethiopian delegation at Geneva believes war inevitable, the king of kings—central figure in today's ceremonies—awaited only a signal from his delegation to boom the drums of mobilization throughout the land. Proclamation posters already were in print.

British Naval Program

London, Sept. 27 (AP).—An authoritative source today stated the belief that Great Britain soon will launch a new naval construction program, kept strictly within the limitations of the Washington Treaty of 1922, however.

Official sources said that a report in some sections of the British press that the British government soon would send Washington a note terminating that treaty was completely without foundation.

Said a foreign office official: "There is no truth whatever in the report that a note will be sent or is contemplated."

Another authority stated it was most unlikely that the cabinet had discussed naval increases at its recent meeting although there was no guarantee that Parliament would not consider the matter when it reconvenes late in October.

Ray Atherton, counselor of the United States Embassy, called at the foreign office and remained for some time today, but the nature of his business was not disclosed.

Ambassador Robert W. Bingham visited the foreign office Wednesday, but there was no indication that he talked about naval matters.

Because of economy and disarmament efforts, critics of the government say it has allowed the British navy to run down far below authorized treaty limitations. From some quarters has come the allegation that the navy is inadequate at the present time for proper empire and home defense.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Sept. 27 — Mrs. Charles Nelce, who spent the summer with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold White, at Chango Bridge, returned to her home on Main street Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Healey of Kingston spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Francis O'Reilly of Salem street.

The Epworth League will go on a hike Saturday morning. All those who plan to go are asked to meet at the home of Miss Harriet Clark at 9:30 o'clock. A basket lunch will be enjoyed. Each one is asked to bring enough water for coffee.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will hold its regular business meeting at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Ellsworth Wednesday afternoon, October 2, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Ellsworth and Mrs. Sylvanus Van Alen will be the hostesses.

The October meeting of the Priscilla Society will be held at the home of Mrs. William Clark on Schryver street Tuesday evening, October 1. Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Ralph Atkins will be the hostesses.

Denies Shots at Deputies.

Scotch Plains, N. J., Sept. 27 (AP).—Contradicting the story of a deputy, John Cremps, 43-year-old farmer, today told prosecutor Abe J. David that he had not fired on seven deputy sheriffs in a gun-battle in which his wife, Sophie, was shot to death. His gun jammed when the officials arrived at his Terrill road home yesterday to serve him with contempt papers for molesting power lines across his property. Cremps said, and he threw it away. Cremps made his statement to the prosecutor in the Elizabeth, N. J., General Hospital where he is under guard, wounded in the knee and finger.

Discovery of Tea Dates

Back to Year 2737 B. C.

No one knows just when tea first came into use as a beverage, for like other things its origin is buried in antiquity. One legend, states a writer in Pathfinder Magazine, tells how it was discovered in 2737 B. C. by a Chinese emperor, Shen-Nung, to whom all agricultural and medical knowledge is traced, who accidentally dropped a piece of tea-wood into a pot of boiling water intended for his supper. Another story relates how a lover brought his sweetheart flowers from the tea bush and how she accidentally drank some of the water from the vase in which she had placed them. Still another concerns a priest named Bodhidharma who vowed he would worship and pray to Buddha for nine years without sleep. At the end of three years he dozed off and as he passed by his sweetheart's flowers and threw them away. From each of the ladies a tea bush grew and when Bodhidharma began to get drowsy at the end of another five years he picked a few leaves from the magic bush or miracle bush and ate them. These so stimulated him that he was able to complete his nine years' worship.

Existence of these legends would seem to indicate that tea was known long before there was any actual proof of its existence, which dates back to about 600 A. D. Governments then at war were on the alert for something to eat and when tea became popular in the eighth century a tea tax was slapped on.

In the ninth century use of tea spread to Japan and later to all the world but it was not until the seventeenth century tea-drinking was taken up in England where it might now be termed the national beverage. In recent years tea use has been on the increase in the United States.

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—Specialties held the bullfish play in today's stock market while most of the leaders backed and filled indifferently.

Shares of Coca-Cola and Greyhound Corp. got up about 2 points each and Philip Morris sported 3. Gainers of fractions to around a point included McKesson & Robbins, Shattuck, American Woolen, Preferred, Industrial Rayon, Clevelander, Western Union, Electric Power & Light, International Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Chrysler, Lorillard, American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers B and Montgomery Ward. Among losers up to a point or so were Pullman, Canada Dry, U. S. Steel, Continental Can, American Can and U. S. Smelting. The majority of the rails and utilities held to a restricted range.

Canada Dry, which at one time was one of the liveliest of the so-called liquor stocks, fell to a new year's low following yesterday's action of the company's directors in omitting the quarterly dividend. The manager explained the omission by stating that cash assets were needed for expansion plans.

One of the cars was filled with lacquer shipments and these added fuel to the fire.

Hughes was hurried into the river, where he remained 15 minutes before Colcord Huerfelin, nationally known artist, and Ned Patterson, who live nearby, heard his screams and rowed to his rescue.

The rescuers said that almost immediately after they took Hughes from the water, one of the electric locomotives plunged over the side of the bridge into the river, striking the spot where he had been.

New Haven railroad officials announced at 8 a. m. (E.D.T.) that track 3 was clear and partial operation of passenger trains was in effect on the main line through the wreck area.

For several hours previously, all traffic was rerouted through Danbury, the officials said, because the wreck had disabled all power lines on the regular division.

The first train through to New York city on track 3 was the Banker's Express. Officials described the second train as an extra freight running from Oak Point to Cedar Hill in charge of Engineer Sheehan and Conductor J. Tierney.

The bridge where the accident occurred is known as the Westport drawbridge. Fire which started in the wreckage spread to the bridge before firemen were able to put it out.

Official figures disclosed that two of the three electric engines on the extra freight were damaged seriously, two cars were destroyed by fire, and at least 13 cars were derailed.

Tactical Exercises.

San Pedro, Calif., Sept. 27 (AP).—The vast fighting force of approximately 100 United States naval vessels is under orders to sail from southern California bases Monday for "tactical exercises" covering a four-day period. Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the fleet, is issuing the orders for all units to participate in the secret problem, announced no civilians would be allowed aboard any of the ships while the maneuvers were being held. High-ranking officers of the fleet declined to comment on the order. They denied, however, that it was planned in connection with the visit here next week of President Roosevelt. They professed ignorance of any plan to stage a huge review in honor of the president.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the Board of Health:

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hines of 60 Hooker street, a son, James Henry, Jr., at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Schoonmaker of 204 O'Neil street, a son, John Howard, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnston of 75 Montpelier avenue, a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gardner of 59 Gage street, a daughter, Charlotte Joan, at Benedictine Hospital.

One Killed, 3 Injured In Crash of 2 Freight Trains in Connecticut

Westport, Conn., Sept. 27 (AP).—One man was burned to death and three others were injured, one of them seriously, in the crash of two freight trains on the main line of the New Haven railroad here early today.

The "Speed Switch," a fast freight, had stopped on a bridge over the Saugatuck river just past the Westport and Saugatuck railroad station here, because of mechanical trouble with one of the cars, when the Maine Bullet, another fast freight, ploughed into the caboose and the last four cars, hurling an electric locomotive of the second train into the river.

Wheeling Trolley Workers 'Ring Gong' With Cooperative Street Car Company

The Wheeling street car company is a true cooperative. At left, Harry B. McCune (left), general manager, is seen shaking hands with a member of the board of directors, E. D. Kennon, who also operates one of the company's cars. At right, one of the line's motormen is proving that employees meant what they said when they adopted "courtesy" as their motto.

Wheeling, W. Va. (AP)—It's board meeting time in the old frame residence which houses one of the most democratic street car companies in the nation.

The chairman—he's just one of the workers on ordinary days—begins:

"We've paid for our car line. What next?"

Around him are grouped the other directors. One is a motorman on a daily run, another represents the men who toil in the repair shops—even the office girls are represented. "We've still got some competition from busses," comes from a director.

"Why can't we do something to smooth that out?"

And something was done.

Took Over Bus Line

The 240 employees who two years ago faced loss of their jobs because the Wheeling Traction company was in receivership weren't content with just paying off the debt on the interurban line—they bought the business—lock, stock and barrel—at a federal court sale.

Within two weeks after they turned over the last $25,000 of the $75,600 purchase price a deal was made to coordinate an Ohio bus service with the interurban line.

The employee-owned interurban system now is known as the 'Co-operative Transit Company. At a meeting in Columbus, O., the Co-operative Bus Company was formed with transit company officers and officials of the former Eastern Ohio Bus Company as incorporators.

The bus line hereafter will be run in cooperation with the street cars in eastern Ohio.

Serve Many Cities

The old Wheeling Traction Company ran lines from Warwood to Moundsville in West Virginia and to Bridgeport, Bellaire, Shadyside, Martins Ferry and other points in Ohio.

The depression whipped it and under receivership the system seemed headed for the junkyard.

The workers dug into their savings and raised $25,000 for a first payment. Everyone of them turned in at least $300. In the next two years each contributed 10 per cent of his or her wages to pay off the debt.

They did it on a nickel fare, too. Only after a two-mile ride does the fare rise to 7½ cents.

The payroll ran about $23,000 a month and there was overhead to be considered. To save money the workers rented an old house on Wheeling island as headquarters and all other expenses were cut to a minimum.

Supported By Public

By plugging along they built up the line to the point it carried 8,000-9,000 passengers last year. The goal for 1935 is 10,000,000. The company's motto is "courtesy."

"One of the contributing factors to the success of the system was the wonderful public support given to it," said Harry McCune, president and general manager. "Many persons leave their automobiles at home to ride with us."

Grouped around McCune as officers of the company are Treasurer R. T. Carnes, General Superintendent Charles M. Marsh—47 years in the service, and Instructor Thomas F. Burke, a veteran of 45 years service.

"Watch this line from now on," they say. "Street cars aren't doomed. The country will be needing them for mass transportation for years."

ECONOMISTS SNIFE AT DAWES' PREDICTIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 27 (AP)—Economists accepted Charles G. Dawes' invitation and began sniping today at the method he used in making his second prediction of economic recovery within a year.

The former vice president, who saw his prediction of last December that a sharp upward trend would take place in the durable goods industries fulfilled, last night said that "mass confidence once regained is not subject to frequent oscillations."

Addressing a group of Illinois business leaders, Gen. Dawes demonstrated with charts and graphs the course of previous depressions and the recent depression, and prophesied that economic recovery was definitely underway.

He invited "professional economists" referring to them as "owls who are now blinking at the unexpected consequences that they failed to foresee" to shoot at his conclusions.

The ladies of the Lomontville Home Bureau unit gathered for their daily day at the home of Mrs. Demetria J. France last Wednesday.

Each lady brought her luncheon. The program for the new year was gone over and the different problems of the community were discussed.

All were glad to see Miss Ervick Parsons again and hope the coming winter will be a very successful one.

Those present were Mrs. Lemuel Brown, Mrs. Edward Bennett, Mrs. Gracille Lockwood, Mrs. E. J. Hunt, Mrs. Hamilton Gillespie, Mrs. Marie Snyder, Miss Ervick Parsons, Mrs. Demetria J. France.

Veteran Of Suffrage Battles To Lead Women Of World In Crusade Against War

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington (AP).—Whether the pen really is mightier than the sword will be put to a unique test this fall and winter in the first world-wide move for peace.

Women who belong to the International League for Peace and Freedom are organizing swiftly for a house-to-house campaign in both Europe and America during which they will ask the rank and file to sign a "People's Mandate Against War" to be presented to all governments and to the League of Nations at Geneva.

They hope, while armies are buckling on swords and loading rifles to drown the mounting war talk with an equal flood of peace talk.

Germany and Italy Out

An American woman, Mabel Vernon, will lead the campaign. But she will be aided by outstanding men and women in all the European nations, except in Germany and Italy, where the women's peace leagues have dissolved in recent years.

Miss Vernon is a seasoned campaigner who first was her feet in the women's suffrage fight in this country.

She was a Swarthmore-Columbia graduate with a teaching position when the suffrage fight lured her away in 1914. After the successful campaign she turned to the equal rights fight. In recent years she has served as finance and then as campaign manager for the American branch of the women's peace league with headquarters here, strangely enough, in the building used by General Grant during the civil war.

"Peace March"

Miss Vernon has a theory that intangible ideals such as peace can be dramatized. She sees a military parade churning up enthusiasm along the nation's main streets with their martial music, their flying flags, and names on these peace pleas have been she smiles. The same thing, she says, can be done for peace: war has no other various governments by denouncing peculiar claims on flags and marching of leading citizens.

Her confederates here and abroad will arrive at the League of Nations in Geneva, presenting the test. On both continents they will descend on neighborhoods with penand paper in hand, talking peace, setting the signatures of men and women who have no love of battle-roids. They hope to leave behind them a growing storm of talk.

First Rallies in U. S.

They will ask for time at all public meetings whether held in churches, schools, convention halls or labor union headquarters. They will ask the aid of teachers, club women and labor union members.

Peace rallies will be held, the first round in the United States is planned for the following cities: New York, Chicago, Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, New Orleans, Buffalo, Wichita, Columbus, Baltimore, San Francisco, Seattle, Boston and Jacksonville, Fla.

When the goal of fifty million signatures is reached, the peace pleas will be taken to the various governments by denouncing peculiar claims on flags and marching of leading citizens.

Then an international delegation will arrive at the League of Nations in Geneva, presenting the test. On both continents they will descend on neighborhoods with pen-

High School News

Students See Film-Talker

Wednesday and Thursday in the assemblies, the High School students were shown a film-talker on "The Science of Seeing." The machine consisted of a slide projector combined with a victrola which was attached to a loud speaker. As the slides were shown on the screen, the record described the corresponding scenes. The machine is a development of the General Electric Research Department and is operated by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. Mr. Dumm, principal of the high school, introduced Mr. Waterman, who gave a few introductory remarks concerning the features. The pictures showed the evolution of the eye and eye-sight from the Neanderthal Man to the present time.

More Senior Elections

This morning the Senior Class met to conclude the election of its officers. The election of the editor-in-chief of the Maroon, the High School year book, will be held in the near future. The business manager of the publication will also be elected by the class. The remainder of the class will be either chosen or elected by competition. The work on the Maroon will begin soon, even though the book does not come off the press until the last week of school in June.

Debating Conference

The annual conference of the Eastern New York Intercollegiate Debating League will be held Saturday, October 5, at the high school. Representatives from all the prominent high schools in the section of the state will be in attendance. There will be a model debate over the Liberty Bell, which will be discussed and criticized by Paul Speck, an Albany, N. Y., student of debating and his talk promised to be both interesting and instructive.

At noon the speaker will have luncheon served in the school cafeteria under the supervision of Mr. Dumm, and at after dinner there will be a dinner by the High School of Kingston.

After luncheon there will be a series of non-competitive debates given by the intercollegiate members of the league. This is a new feature of the conference program and will probably prove very profitable to the conference. All adjournment will be at 8 o'clock, as possible.

Scholarship
The recent graduation class has won considerable honor in the various colleges and universities.

Among the graduates the President of the class, Dr. McCullough, has been elected to the position of president of the college.

Among the graduates the President of the class, Dr. McCullough, has been elected to the position of president of the college.

awarded the Kingston College Women's Scholarship, a gift of $100. Several other students are prospective recipients of scholarships.

New Faculty Member

The only addition to the High School Faculty this term is Peter A. Etienne. Mr. Etienne was graduated from Colgate in 1922. While in college he played variety baseball and was a member of the rifle team. He majored in history and French. He has already taught in Morris and Newport and therefore does not come inexperienced to the H. S. At present he is in charge of a boy's study hall but will soon be assigned several classes to teach.

Administrative Experiment

In a desperate effort to relieve the congestion in the high school building, the administration has offered to seniors who have the last period free, the opportunity of coming before the end of the sixth period. This move will eliminate a great deal of the confusion and crowding at the 5 o'clock dismissal. The proposition is open only to those seniors who have shown a consistently good scholastic record and who therefore can afford to lose the one study period.

Diphtheria Clinic Was Well Attended

The first of the series of free diphtheria clinics held by Dr. L. E. Sanford, city health officer, on Thursday afternoon at the parochial school of the Immaculate Conception Church on Delaware avenue, was well attended and 74 children were immunized from diphtheria and 87 children were vaccinated.

Dr. Sanford stated that the purpose of the parochial school was to give 100 per cent immunization from diphtheria at every point in the school had been given an injection of serum.

The next in the series of free clinics will be held Thursday afternoon at the parochial school of St. Joseph's Church on 3rd and 4th streets.

WOODSTOCK CAUCUS
TONIGHT MANY CANDIDATES

Representatives of the town of Woodstock will hold their caucus tonight at town officials at the high school building on 4th street.

There are several aspirants for office in the town. Among them are: Supervisor, Attorney, and others.

World Series, America's Next Million-Dollar Sports Show

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)
New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The World Series, America's next million-dollar sports show, will be renewed next week in Detroit, where it was ended in a shower of fruit and vegetables a year ago.

No matter what steps, if any, are taken to prevent a recurrence of such riotous conduct by Tiger fans, it appears certain that Joe Medwick, target for the 1934 shower, will be missing, along with the rest of the St. Louis Gas House gang.

It's yet to be settled definitely, but you can write your own ticket on the proposition that Lon Warneke, pride of the Ozarks, and the sensational Chicago Cubs will fling this year's National League challenge to the two-time American League champions.

Cubs Got "Hot" In September.
The Cubs have been the "hot" National League team since the first of September, when they began their spectacular winning streak. They expect to have the same kind of momentum that carried the Cardinals to victory in 1934, and the Giants to the top in 1933. They didn't take the lead until September 14, but it's a vital point to be considered in "doping" the outcome of the series.

The Tigers have had nothing to worry about since they on their mid-season drive and shook off the Yankees. Cochran's crew clinched the flag Saturday.

They must wait around to find out who they meet in the big series. The strain was such a year ago that the "iron man" Tiger infield had a bad case of "jitters" on opening day.

Tigers Have Experience.
This year, things should be different. The Tigers have experience now, plus additional confidence, just as much power and the same capable pitching resources. Bridges, Rowe, Auker and Crowder will be Cochran's "big four" on the firing line.

The Cubs include few regulars with World Series experience. Billy Herman, Gabby Hartnett, Billy Jurges, Lon Warneke and Charley Root are the only men who can be classed as regulars of the team that was slaughtered in 1932 by the Yankees. Frank Demaree and Stanley Hack, regulars now, were substitutes then.

Three of the 1935 regulars—Demaree, Augie Galan and Phil Cavaretta—are not even listed in baseball's who's who.

The club has been shifted radically since the start of the season. Kiki Cuyler has been sold, Manager Charley Grimm has retired from active play in favor of Cavaretta, and Chuck Klein, who cost $125,000, has yielded to Demaree.

Sensational sophomore pitching by Bill Lee and a comeback by the veteran Root, plus the deal that brought southpaw Larry French and hard-hitting Freddy Lindstrom into the picture, all contribute to the remarkable rise of this made-over outfit.

Cards Fighting in Last Ditch Tonight

St. Louis, Sept. 27 (AP).—The "Gas House Gang" of St. Louis swarmed across the tracks for the last ditch fight today.

Led by their almost unbeatable Dizzy Dean, just spilling for his 29th winning scrap of the season, the Cardinals looked hopelessly beaten in their final struggle to halt the merry, mad pennant parade of the 19-in-a-row Chicago Cubs, who had two chances to march into the world series in a double-header starting at 12:45 p. m. (Central Standard time).

Four up and four to go, with rain threatening to clinch the pennant by washing out one or two of the remaining games, the Cubs seemingly had nothing to worry about except the awaiting Detroit Tigers in the World Series opener next week.

"General" Bill Lee, a six-foot three right hander who has won 19 and lost six for the best winning percentage of the National League this season, was Manager Charlie Grimm's mound choice for the first game of the twin bill with the surprising gray beard of the Bruins, Charley Root, refreshed and ready to pitch the second, win or lose.

Grimm expected Paul Dean to hurl the second for the Cardinals in case they beat Lee despite the statement of Manager Frankie Frisch that Mike Ryba, a versatile farm hand from Columbus, probably would do the casting.

An all day rain washed out the second game of the deciding five-game series yesterday, forcing the doubleheader.

Should it rain today—"possibly showers" was the forecast—it would be necessary to play doubleheaders Saturday and Sunday.

Any interruption by the elements thereafter would be just too bad for the Cardinals as rules forbid three games in one day and the season ends Sunday regardless of the number of contests left on the schedule except in the case of a tie. To tie, the Cards must play and win all four remaining games.

Football Season in Full Swing This Week
New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Alabamas—and the Knoxes—of intercollegiate football formally lay the cornerstone of a new and promising campaign this week.

Already touched off by scattering games last week, the season will be in full swing tonight and tomorrow, even though many of the game's traditional powers delay their inaugurals for another week.

There appears to be no reasonable doubt that the fans will be rewarded by as spectacular a display of offensive football as the game ever has known.

The ever increasing use of the lateral pass, encouraged by the removal of some of the more excessive penalties that retarded its development, has brought about a wide open game with gratifying results at the box office.

Despite the unquestioned trend toward their elimination, this week's schedule is dominated by "tune-up" games in which the sacrificial lambs of football are tossed in against overpowering opposition. The slaughter, as usual, will be terrific.

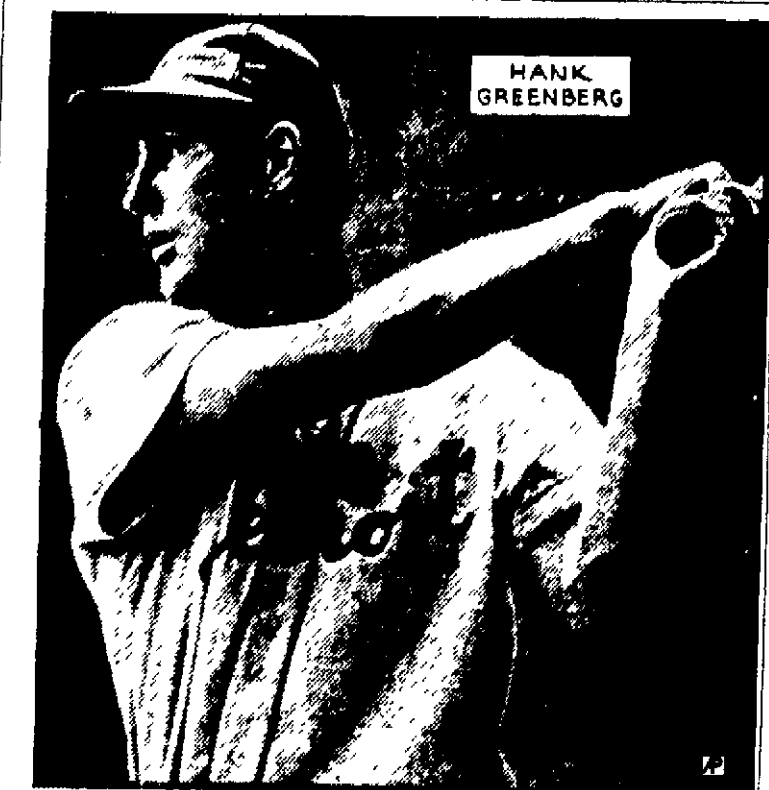

Midwest and South Games
In the midwest and south, however, real competition should be forthcoming in such contests as those involving Notre Dame and Kansas, Nebraska and Chicago, Oklahoma and Colorado University, Rice and Louisiana State, and Duke and South Carolina.

In the east, Duquesne's tussle to-night with Kansas State, surprise champions of the Big Six last year, should be the high spot, although Navy, beaten only by Pittsburgh a year ago, expects to romp with William and Mary.

Such eastern stalwarts as Pittsburgh, Colgate, Fordham, Holy Cross, Villanova, Cornell and Dartmouth are booked against rivals that on paper do not threaten.

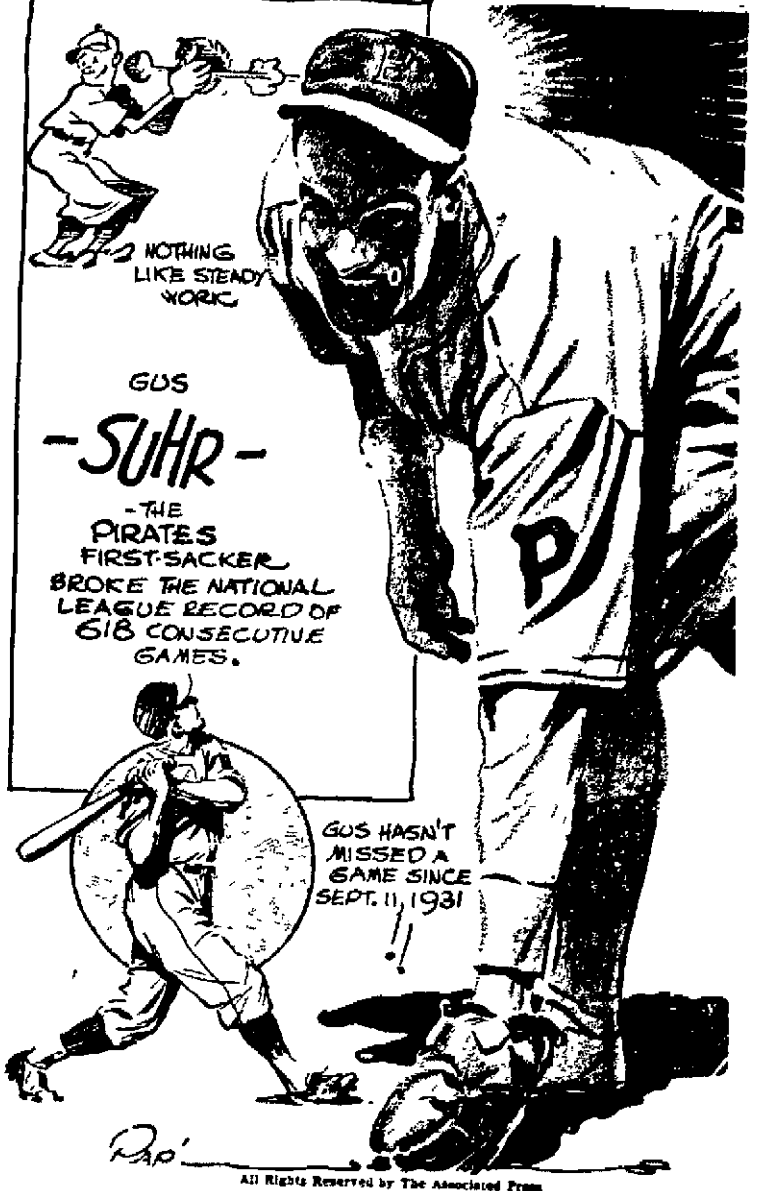

Pre-season calculations point to a wide open tussle for the mythical national crown to which most experts believed Minnesota's undefeated steam-roller was entitled last year.

In the east, Pitt, Colgate, Fordham, Temple, Princeton, Pennsylvania, and possibly Holy Cross look especially formidable. Army, Navy, Columbia, Yale and Syracuse should be pushovers for none.

Hank Greenberg, the husky first-sacker from the Bronx, is the bellicow of the Detroit batting attack, the lad with the "long stretch" that robs opponents of base-hits and the big target the Tigers' great defensive infield combination shoots at for put-outs. Hank has acquired much polish and aplomb, both at bat and afield, since Manager Mickey Cochran dropped him a couple of notches in the batting order mid-way of the 1934 World Series "to take the pressure off" the then first-year man.

Columbia Has But Two 1934 Men Left

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—Depression that usually follows a couple of lush seasons appears to have caught up with Lou Little and his Columbia football team.

The big Little, who looks like Ed Wynn and can do almost as many tricks with his players as the comedian does with his hands, says he will be satisfied if the team breaks even.

Graduation took nine players from his 1934 starting lineup.

Batting Power Of Detroit's Infield Lies In Greenberg And Gehring

(This is the third of a series of stories analyzing the Detroit Tigers.)
By EARL HILLIGAN.
Detroit (AP).—No ball club can lead its league in fielding over a long period without having a better than average infield, and the inner defense of the Detroit Tigers of 1935 appears just as strong, defensively, as it did last season when it was rated as one of the best.

In 1934 it was the combination of "Hank" Greenberg at first, Charley Gehring at second, Bill Rogell at shortstop, and Martin Owen at third, which virtually led the team to the American League championship. In 1934 each member of the combination drove in at least 100 runs and played as a unit throughout the season, without being broken up by injuries.

This year it has been a different story relative to injuries, but a similar one relative to defensive play. Lou Greenberg on offense.

Hudson Valley Bowling League Gets A. B. L. Sanction

The Hudson Valley Bowling League, organization of which was completed in a meeting held at Walden Wednesday night, has been sanctioned by the American Bowling League Congress, it is announced.

There are eight teams in the Hudson Valley circuit—Kingston, Port Jervis, Liberty, Middletown Elks, Middletown State Hospital, Walden R. & H., Walden Ramblers and Newburgh—and all were represented at the Walden meeting.

The schedule for the first two weeks, as arranged by the secretary, was accepted by the representatives, who also decided to have all results sent to the newspapers so that they might be printed by the second day after the matches. It was agreed to leave the blind score at 150 and to allow no team more than two blinds.

The league will open its season on October 20, the following schedule having been arranged:
October 20—Liberty at Kingston; Middletown State Hospital at Port Jervis; Walden R. & H. at Newburgh; Middletown Elks at Walden Ramblers. October 27—Port Jervis at Liberty; Walden R. & H. at Middletown Elks; Newburgh at Walden Ramblers. November 3—Kingston at Middletown State Hospital.

Camden, N. J.—Ernie Dusek, 225, Omaha, defeated Dick Raines, 220, Paducah, Tex., in two straight falls; Gino Garibaldi, 205, St. Louis, and Mike Mazurki, 225, New York, drew in 45 minutes.

Trenton, N. J.—Danno O'Mahoney, 220, Ireland, defeated Emil Dusek, 212, Omaha, in two straight falls; Fred Grubmiller, 205, Iowa, pinned John Swenski, 203, Poland, in 20:16.

Ottawa—Rube Wright, 230, Brownwood, Tex., defeated Howard Cantonwine, Portland Ore., in two straight falls; Little Beaver, 226, North Carolina, disqualified in bout with Vic Christie, 212, Glendale, Calif., for kicking.

Albany, N. Y.—Mickey Walker, 172½, Rumson, N. J., won on technical knockout from Eddie Whalen, 165, Brooklyn, (3).

Saturday, September 21, 1,300 brown and rainbow trout up to nine inches in length were released from the Ulster County Fish and Game Association's rearing pool. Two hundred of these fish were placed in the Big Beaverkill, above the new concrete bridge, and 100 were placed in the Esopus between Coldbrook and Phoenicia. This work, which presented quite a task (only about two dozen trout to a can being transported at one time), was done under the supervision of Field Superintendent Caunitz. The cans were contributed by the L. S. Winne & Co., and William Whitson of Ulster Park supplied the truck as well as his services. In addition Miles Pollock and Gordon Corey of Kingston and Ernest Hanel, Jr., of Chichester helped in the work. The Association wishes to thank these men publicly for giving of their entire Saturday for this work. It is this willingness to help live-wire organization. It is hoped that the next time there is work of this and similar nature to be done that more members will offer their services. The old saying "Many hands make light work," could well be applied here.

Deer hunting licenses are now on sale at the County Clerk's office. Price same as usual.

New Members
Membership in the Association now totals 422. A pleasant letter from E. T. Whiffen of Stone Ridge to Secretary Wight, enclosing applications for two new members, read as follows:

Dear Mr. Wight,
It gives me very great pleasure to send in the names and dues of new members. I have several other prospects. Will you send me at least six or eight more application blanks? Thank you.
With best wishes for the success of the Association, I am,
Very truly yours,
E. T. WHIFFEN.

This is the type of letter from a member that gives the Association courage to face the remaining months of the year in the firm belief that it will achieve the 500 membership mark. Just 78 more members are needed to reach this goal. New members joining this week are Mrs. Henry Field of Ridgeley Manor, Stone Ridge, Irving North and Edward Bush of Stone Ridge, and Leslie Munson of Port Ewen. Members securing these new members are Roswell Coles, E. T. Whiffen and Victor Spinnenweber.

Following out their announced intention of stocking nearby waters with suitable fish the Association released on Wednesday ten cans (1,500) of yellow perch in Devil's Lake. This is the first time this body of water has ever been stocked. While not suitable for game fish it affords a good spot for the near at hand fisherman to get a mess of good eating pan-fish. It is hoped that bullheads can later be secured for these waters.

J. Ray Murphy, New Legion Commander

St. Louis, Sept. 27 (AP)—J. Ray Murphy, the new commander of the American Legion, doesn't smoke. He does sing tenor. And he can take care of himself.

"Ray Murphy is the last man in Iowa that I'd choose for a fist fight," said a buddy of the 48-year old, 235-pound, 6 foot 10 inch attorney today.

The Iowa insurance commissioner didn't say much. He doesn't waste words. After his election as head of the World War veterans at the close of the seventeenth annual Legion Convention here yesterday, he pledged his efforts toward stamping out propaganda subversive to American principles, asserted "the first obligation of the American Legion is to the disabled war veterans and to the widows and orphans of those who gave their lives for their country in the World War" and promised full support to the Legion program.

That program includes a demand for immediate cash payment of adjusted compensation certificates, (bonus), cancellation of accrued interest and refund of interest paid "without having it complicated or confused with other issues of government finance or theories of currency with which the Legion does not intend to become involved."

Murphy was a machine gun captain in the World War. In 1925 and 1926 he was head of the Iowa Department. For four years, beginning in 1929, he was a member of the national executive committee of the Legion.

Murphy, a Catholic, was born on an Iowa farm. He captained the University of Iowa football team in his senior year.

At 16 he joined the national guard. He was with troops from the tall corn state on the Mexican border and won his rank of captain in France.

Skepticism Is Felt Over Memel Elections

Memel, Sept. 27 (AP)—Frank skepticism that the Memel territory election Sunday would settle the controversy between Germany and Lithuania was expressed today by foreign observers.

Lithuanian political leaders charged that Germany, in an effort to force pro-German sympathy in the Memel territory, had in effect declared an economic war on the region.

These leaders declared Germany had stopped virtually all imports from Lithuania, had limited Lithuanian transit shipments through the third Reich, and had gained a hold on Memel farmers through mortgage loans.

(The German press pointed to reports of an army mutiny and a farmers' strike in Memel as evidences of unrest preceding the legislative elections. The Lithuanian government countered German charges of pre-election discriminations by inviting representatives of Great Britain, Italy and France to attend the elections as observers.)

The real Memel question, observers pointed out, is whether 145,000 people, divided in language and national spirit, and subject to strong outside influences, can be set apart and told to govern themselves.

Political Heirs Seek Repeal of Measures

New Orleans, Sept. 27 (AP)—Huey Long's political heirs were reported today to seek repeal of some of the late dictator's most stringent laws in return for support from an organization Long thoroughly subdued.

The old regulars, who controlled New Orleans politics for many years before Long forced them to capitulate only a short time before his assassination, were reported to have drawn from the administration a promise that it would seek repeal of acts taking away the city's local government.

In caucus, the followers of Governor O. K. Allen held out, however, for continued control of New Orleans patronage until after the January election.

Men's Club Dinner
At a recent meeting of the Federation of Men's Clubs October 16 was selected as the date of the annual dinner, officially closing the football tournament of the summer. The dinner will be held at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church at 6:30 p. m. The trophy will at this time be awarded to the winning team. It is necessary that each club notify the Federation by October 12th the number of tickets sold in order that details can be arranged.

Security by "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul"

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 27—The present day teaching that social security can be guaranteed by the government—a program "to promise abundance for all—by robbing selective Peter to pay collective Paul," is one of the enemies of savings bank tenets of thrift and savings, Dr. Harold Stonier, educational director of the American Bankers' Association this morning told delegates at the closing session of the 42nd annual convention of the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York. Another enemy, he said, is gambling fostered by the 1929 era.

"Social security," said Dr. Stonier, "with its alluring promise that some one else will guarantee for the 'rainy day' can never take the place of the traditional program of the savings banks that man's future welfare is a matter of individual responsibility."

At the close of the session the delegates adopted a resolution endorsing "all efforts in the field of social security such as will add to the self-respect and self-dependence of the citizens of this country, while deploring such as might tend to discourage individual effort and substitute a reliance upon the help of others."

In another resolution the convention voted to "continue with renewed energy (the associations) efforts toward a more equitable distribution of the tax burden," as an encouragement to home ownership and a reward of thrift.

CLINTONDALE

Clinton, Sept. 27.—Funeral services for Frank H. Terhune will be held on Friday afternoon from the Clintondale Friends Church, with the Rev. B. Russell Branson, pastor, officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Lloyd Cemetery in charge of Harold Sutton of Clintondale. Mr. Terhune died at his home here after a short illness. He was a retired fruit grower and a director of the Clintondale Fruit Growers' Association, a member of the Clintondale Friends Church and a member of the Clintondale Grange, No. 957. He was born in Accord, Ulster county, but had spent the greater portion of his life in this village. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Mrs. Grace Pennington Terhune, and three daughters, Mrs. William Minard, Mrs. Clarence Thorn and Mrs. Harold Walker, all of Clintondale, and eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

You'd suppose, from the interest shown in local political campaigns almost everywhere, that they're more important than international affairs. And maybe they are, on the same principle that a child's burnt finger is more important to the family than a big fire in the next town.
